

13. The tongue has only five main taste receptors, but a combination of taste and smell allows our brains to distinguish between thousands of flavors. Given that fact, what can be concluded from the following?
- A. A chef that has lost her sense of smell might have trouble spicing food correctly.
 - B. Even if you're holding your nose, it will be easy to tell what flavor of candy a friend has given you.
 - C. People tend to have a bigger appetite when they have a cold because food seems more flavorful.
 - D. All of the above.
14. Which of the following is NOT a bone in your ear?
- A. hammer
 - B. cochlea
 - C. stirrup
 - D. anvil
15. The largest sensory organ of your body is:
- A. your nose
 - B. your skin
 - C. your ears
 - D. your tongue